Broadsword Editorial

In the Spring months of 2013, there have been many events dominating the national news media that once again justify British Movement's total opposition to a multi-racial, multi-cultural Britain.

Court cases have hit the headlines once again, where the issue has been gangs of Asian (Muslim) men grooming vulnerable, under-age White British girls for sex; drugs, alcohol and child-prostitution have all been part of the degeneracy in these trials.

There have been more court cases involving so-called, 'home-grown' jihadists, Islamic terrorists born and educated in the UK, but radicalised and hostile to the traditional British way of life.

The most shocking story of all has been the brutal slaying of an unarmed, off-duty British soldier on a street in South-East London. The ambush and butchering of Fusilier Lee Rigby, the Woolwich Atrocity will stand for decades as one of the worst such crimes since the cowardly London 7/7 Tube bombings.

All the above are only part of the catalogue of attacks on the British way of life, the degradation of our nation, which has accelerated as non-white immigration into the UK has accelerated.

Next year we face the deluge of immigration from Romania and Bulgaria; despite all the official denials, the Home Office knows that the majority of those flooding into Britain will be impoverished Roma Gypsies, with all the implications that human tidal wave has for our social welfare system, health services, housing and education. If the civil servants at the Home Office can be bothered to look at what is already happening in Germany, they will see what kind of social tensions, crime and welfare demands are heading for Britain in 2014.

If the thought of the 2014 invasion from Romania and Bulgaria is not enough, bear in mind that the constant flood of impoverished, desperate migrants from Sub-Saharan Africa is continuing - they are crossing the Mediterranean Sea by boat loads - many, many, many of them seek to land in Italy, Malta or Spain - but want to reach Britain. This must not be allowed to happen.

THE WERWOLF COLUMN

On the Streets - British City and Town Centres and the Problems Faced by National Socialist and Racial Nationalist Street Activists

Protests over the brutal murder of Drummer Lee Rigby in the Woolwich Atrocity has galvanised a good number of street protests by an array of Nationalist and patriotic organisations across the UK, but the police have been quick to contain and restrict these protests where ever and when ever they occur. In tandem with the police response, the media has deliberately under reported the scale of protests and instead has over reported on the responses of 'tame' Muslim leaders to both the Woolwich Atrocity and the 'threat' of a White (racist) backlash.

Unfortunately some racial Nationalists declare a nostalgia for the marches and demonstrations of the past; times have changed, new conditions require new tactics, a new approach, town centres and city precincts are not ideal campaigning territory any more.

British Movement activists have taken part in numerous demonstrations alongside members and supporters of other organisations, but always under the threat of arrest if an individual police officer decides that members of the 'ethnic minorities' are likely to be 'offended' by aspects of the protest. This happened in Oldham town centre on May 25th when a single Asian passer-by complained to police about a flag that carried the slogan 'No More Mosques'.

(See the You tube footage of a 19 year old pregnant female protester being arrested by a squad of police officers.)

Police attitudes are a major problem, their training ingrains hostility to White racial activists. 'City Ambassadors' are trained to identify and neutralise protests and racial Nationalist political activities - if in doubt they call for police Tactical Support Units and issue Public Order sections on those present - 'Get Them Out OF Town' is their standard response.

This was the response to the British Movement 'Sheffield Eight' activity on June 15th 2013, and to some pan-Nationalist protests in other towns.

MULTI-RACIAL MADNESS

Broadsword looks at the stories and incidents drawn from across the media in Britain that best illustrate the depths into which our country has sunk, as the Government, the media, the police and the Race Relations industry conspire against the indigenous British people to impose a multi-cultural society on Britain. How British culture, values and traditions are undermined by political correctness, minority interests and racial equality. Stories which reveal the harsh reality of life in a multi-cultural Britain and the betrayal of the White British majority population.

The Stephen Lawrence Saga 20 Years Later - The Left Are Still Finding New Ways To Milk The Story.

The Stephen Lawrence story has been the subject of many articles in the pages of Broadsword magazine, now once again there has been an outpouring of 'new revelations' about the case across the early months of 2013. Of all the murders committed in London some twenty years ago, of all the murders where race has been the likely motive, why does this case constantly resurface? It is the 'White Guilt' stick with which the proponents of a multi-racial Britain constantly beat the British Establishment, the British Police, the British Judicial system, and especially White British liberals. The poster reproduced here was taken from the pages of the 'Daily Telegraph', a national 'quality' daily, broadsheet newspaper. The advertisement fills a quarter of a page, and is in full colour; the ad began to appear in mid-June 2013 and has appeared virtually every day since. It is pure propaganda for the multi-culturalist cause. How much is this ad costing? Who is paying for it?

'Border official told me to pay £1,000 for a visa'

A UK Border Agency worker rang visa applicants and demanded up to £1,000 to ensure their documents were approved, a court was told. Waseem Majid took home files from the immigration office where he worked to get contact details for students applying for visa extensions, it is alleged.

The 35-year-old warned the applicants they would not get visas without his help. Croydon Crown Court heard UKBA investigators said when they raided Majid's home in Woolwich, south-east London, in August 2011, they found a "mass" of confidential records were contained details of people for criminal purposes.

Papers at Majid's home had names and amounts of money between £500 and £1,000 written next to them. Mauritius-born Nirmal Ramdeo, 28, told the court he was asked for £1,000 to approve his visa extension. He said: "I received a call from a withheld number from an unknown person and they said I must pay to be granted the visa, a thousand pounds."

He did not pay and his application was refused by Majid, the court heard, whose work phone was used to call Mr Ramdeo on his mobile. The trial continues.

Ethnic Minority UK Border Agency Staff Identify New Business Opportunity

Government think-tanks often tell us that immigration is good for the UK economy, and immigrants bring new ideas and fresh business ideas with them.

This story appeared in the Daily Express on April 24th 2013, and seems to illustrate the point.

UK Border Agency staff member Waseem Majid and his friends Muhammed Qadiri, and Sanam Mia, identified a new market opportunity.

Waseem Majid took home files from the UKBA office where he worked, and used the information to contact overseas visa applicants, who were told that for £1,000 he would get around the UK Immigration laws and guarantee them a valid visa.

Unfortunately for Majid and Mia, this business idea is highly illegal. When UKBA investigators raided the home of Waseem Majid in August 2011, they discovered a huge quantity of confidential documents and visa applications. All very illegal.

So Waseem Majid, Sanam Mia who live in Woolwich, and Muhammed Qadiri who lives in Ilford, ended up in the dock of Croydon Crown Court in April 2013 on charges of misconduct in public office and conspiracy to breach UK immigration laws. All very illegal.

Riots looter from Congo cannot be deported

Senior judge backs unmarried thief's 'family life' claim under human rights law

By David Barrett
Home Affairs Correspondent

A 19-year-old Congolese man who was jailed for burglary and theft during the 2011 riots has used human rights law to overturn an attempt by Theresa May, the Home Secretary, to deport him.

Lawyer for Derrick Kinsasi argued that sending him back to the Democratic Republic of Congo would breach his "right to family life" under the Human Rights Act, even though he is unmarried and has no children.

A senior immigration judge allowed the 19-year-old thief to remain in Britain indefinitely, and said that removing him to his homeland would be disproportionate because it had "nothing to do with."

Judge Judith Gubbins's decision to allow Kinsasi's case contrasts sharply with the determination shown by politicians and the removal system to make no exception for rioters.

One MP said Judge Gubbins's decision amounted to an "outrageous political act" as the Government's deportation policy. Dominic Raab, a Tory MP for Manchester, said: "It is a disgrace that a man who was jailed for burglary and theft during the 2011 riots can claim a right to family life to avoid deportation."

The immigration tribunal has undermined the strong message sent by our removal system, which is a core political aim of the policy of deporting foreign criminals.

Kinsasi told the Upper Tribunal Immigration and Asylum Chamber that he came to Britain in 2002 with his brother and sister. The application was refused but he was granted "consequential leave to remain" in 2006, and then in 2010, with his mother and three brothers.

In October 2012, Kinsasi was jailed for six months for burglary and theft from a store, that August. In November 2011, Mrs May's official visit to Kinsasi for one hour, for automatic deportation as he had been jailed for more than a year.

Officials argued he was not entitled to claim "family life" under Article 8 of the European Convention on Human Rights, which is enshrined in British law in the Human Rights Act. Income there was "no evidence of dependency beyond normal emotional ties."

Kinsasi appealed to the lower immigration tribunal, which upheld Mrs May's decision to deport him. Judges found that he and his mother were not "intimate partners", particularly because Kinsasi was "maintaining his ability to speak English."

Judge Gubbins allowed the appeal. She said: "The immigration tribunal found that no disorder will be permitted to remain in the United Kingdom having committed an offence of this gravity."

Kinsasi made another legal challenge, in the Upper Tribunal. He told the court: "I don't have any one [in the UK], there is no family to go back to, I got a good life here."

Judge Gubbins allowed the appeal. She said: "The consequences of his removal to the DRC would amount to a splitting of the family unit. I find that removing him to the DRC has a choice of 'value' rather than his education and it is unlikely to be proportionate."

A Home Office spokesman said: "We are disappointed with this judgment. We want to ensure the courts properly reflect the Government's view that serious criminals should be deported unless there are very exceptional circumstances."

The Government Talks Tough on Dealing with Foreign Criminals But Human Rights Laws Prevent the Majority from being Deported.

Congo born rioter and burglar Derrick Kinsasi was liable for automatic deportation after serving his prison sentence, but the slick lawyers who invoked the Human Rights Act say that he must remain in the UK because Kinsasi has a "right to family life", even though he is not married and has no children!

Derrick Kinsasi, 21, was jailed for 18 months for burglary and theft and was liable for automatic deportation.

'Sex predator' migrant jailed

AN ILLEGAL immigrant who trawled bars looking for young women to attack has been jailed for nine years and will be kicked out of Britain.

Sex predator Aymen Essa, 26, targeted drunken students who had become separated from friends.

The Sudanese refugee was convicted of attempted rape and sexual assault and told by Judge Christopher Llewellyn-Jones, QC: "Your presence in this country is undesirable."

Essa tried to rape a 19-year-old in the street after she staggered out of a bar but was foiled by a passer-by. Cardiff Crown Court heard.

Warren Dutton told the jury he saw Essa lying on top of the girl in an alley. He said: "Her dress pulled up to her waist and his jeans were down. I said 'Get off her' and he quickly got up. She was shaken and upset."

The judge told Essa: "She was plainly in need of help but you identified her as a person of whom you could take advantage."

Essa sexually assaulted another 19-year-old after she passed out on a sofa in a nightclub, the court was told. Two of her friends witnessed the attack and police were called. DNA tests linked him to both incidents.

Essa entered Britain illegally two years ago by being smuggled in the back of a lorry and settled in Cardiff.

The Home Office gave him leave to stay until 2016 after he said his mother and sister had been killed in Sudan.

Essa is set to be deported after serving half his sentence.

Judge Llewellyn-Jones said: "You have shown not the slightest remorse for what you did - you walked away without a care in the world."

The victims had been out celebrating with friends when they were attacked.

Both were so drunk they had no memory of what happened.

Detective Constable Darren Robert said after the hearing: "Aymen Essa is an extremely dangerous sexual predator who preyed on vulnerable women."

"I urge all young women who are planning a night out, please ensure that arrangements are in place for getting home safely."

The above article appeared in the 'Daily Express' on May 29th 2013.

The location is Cardiff in South Wales, the sex attacker is a 26 year old Sudanese, Aymen Essa, who entered Britain as an illegal immigrant in 2011, he admitted arriving in the UK, hidden in the back of a lorry, and settled in the Cardiff area.

Unbelievably, the Home Office had granted Aymen Essa permission to stay in Britain until 2016, after he told officials that his mother and sister had been killed in Sudan.

It is not clear whether or not the Home Office actually investigated this claim to see if it was true.

Now classed as a 'refugee', Aymen Essa started to prowl the streets of night-time Cardiff, and attempted to rape a drunken young woman who had become separated from her friends.

Cardiff Crown Court sentenced Aymen Essa to 9 years in prison with a recommendation that he is deported back to Sudan when he has served half his sentence.

No doubt he will launch a Human Rights appeal against his deportation.

AUSTRALIA

Finally the Australian Government Shows Some Common Sense as it Introduces New Legislation to Deal with Asylum-Seekers and Illegal Immigration.

In something of a belated move, Prime Minister Kevin Rudd, has announced that from July 2013, all asylum-seekers who try to reach Australia by boat, will now be sent to Papua, New Guinea for processing and re-settlement. Australian PM Rudd stated, "a clear and undiluted message to every people smuggler in the world that your business model is basically undermined."

The people arriving in Australian waters on unseaworthy boats claim to be asylum-seekers, refugees fleeing persecution, desperate to seek the shelter of a friendly country. The reality is that most are Afghans who have travelled across India, Indonesia and Malaysia to board boats operated by people smugglers. If these people are truly fleeing persecution why did they not seek asylum in any of the countries they crossed before boarding ship?

Especially as the three countries listed all have Muslim populations and can better cater for the religious and cultural needs of the refugees than Australia. The truth is that these people are seeking the economic strength of a Western country; they want the social welfare, education and health services that a prosperous, European model country offers. Basically the asylum seekers are economic migrants and if they were truly seeking a safe sanctuary, they would be more than happy to settle in New Guinea. But it is Australia they want and their champions on the political Left know this, but will trumpet the Human Rights message world wide for the refugees, and the refugees know it.

Golden Dawn elected MP's make their presence felt in the Greek parliament chamber.

As austerity politics grips Greece and shows no sign of changing, the popularity of the Golden Dawn has increased amongst the Greek population.

The political Left in Greece and the EU bureaucrats in Brussels are less than happy that there is a racial Nationalist/National Socialist movement enjoying such a degree of support in Greece.

The EU Commissioners have engaged in joint talks with the discredited Greek Socialists and others to search out 'legal' means by which the Golden Dawn can be 'neutralised.'

One Brussels commissioner has suggested that under EU 'Human Rights' legislation the EU can directly interfere in a legally elected parliament and outlaw the Golden Dawn. A case of the EU dictating which political parties can be elected in the political framework of a sovereign country.

Broadsword's Athens Correspondent writes:

" The Movement here goes strong, proud and defiant.

The Government's efforts to activate a new 'anti-racist' (read: anti-Golden Dawn) law has led to a clownish friction amongst the other parliamentary parties. I do not think this law will ever come to life. As usual the media, and a motley bunch of bishops and artists, political scientists etc. try with so much zeal, but absolutely in vain try to stop our Movement's appeal to the Hellenic masses. They will FAIL!

Pushing Forward A New Agenda - 'Live the Dream'
A British Movement Perspective

"Live the Dream" is a small 30 page publication, currently being circulated by a racial Nationalist activist in the North of England.

The author of this booklet is hoping to set a debate in motion amongst British racial Nationalists and National Socialists

Many of the ideas proposed in 'Live the Dream' are in line with British Movement thinking, and mirror some of the projects that BM has outlined over the last few years.

Collaboration does not mean taking an inferior position to other organisations, nor does it imply that principles have been abandoned or policies watered down.

In the last two years, BM activists have taken part in pan-Nationalist protests and in the North of England, BM has hosted numerous pan-Nationalist meetings and has provided BM speakers at meetings organised by other Nationalist organisations. This does not mean that BM is looking to merge or take over other organisations; far from it, but often a combination of effort can achieve a positive result for all concerned.

"Live the Dream" is NOT being organised or administered by British Movement.

"Live the Dream" - the author can be contacted at Live the Dream. PO Box 495 HULL HU9 9GL.

British Movement is a National Socialist organisation working towards the creation of a National Socialist counter-culture in Britain, building up a National Socialist alternative that will eventually lead to the creation of a grass-roots N.S mass movement and ultimately a National Socialist Folk Community.

Life sentence for 18-year-old paedophile who raped girl, 11

Sam Jones and agencies

An 18-year-old paedophile who raped an 11-year-old girl while on probation has been jailed for life and told he will serve a minimum of eight years.

Opemipo Jaji, 18, from Edmonton, north London, had just left his probation officer when he spotted the child going home from school on a bus on 23 November last year. He followed her and forced her into Jubilee Park where he attacked her, threatening to stab her if she resisted. He told her he would film her and send copies to children at her school and to "everyone you love". After the rape, he went to a youth centre from which he had been banned as part of a supervision order.

Sentencing Jaji at the Old Bailey yesterday, Mr Justice Singh said he had given careful consideration as to whether he could impose a lesser sentence than life, but decided it was unavoidable.

"In all the circumstances of this case, I do not believe that the public would be adequately protected from you, if you were the subject of any sentence other than a life sentence."

The judge told Jaji his attack affected the girl psychologically as well as physically. "You have left her with terrible emotional scars," he said. "One can only hope that, with the courage that she has already shown in giving evidence at this trial, and with the support of her family and friends, she can begin the process of recovery."

Jaji, who had denied raping the girl, was convicted of the attack in April. The judge said although Jaji had shown remorse, "it is clear to me that you are well capable of lying and of manipulating others around you to suit your own interests".

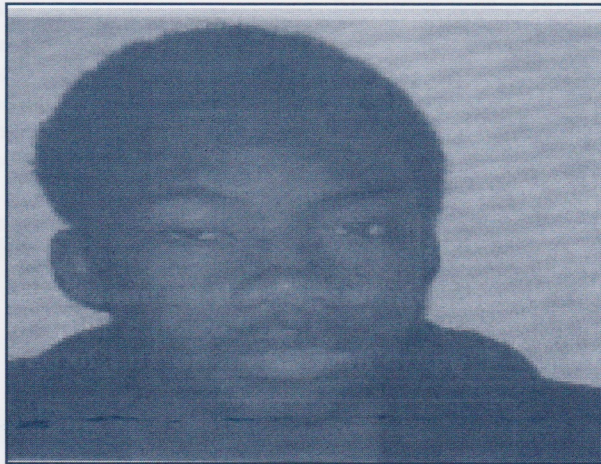

The case has prompted the Probation Service to launch a serious, multi-agency case review into how Jaji was able to commit what it termed a horrific crime.

In February 2011, Jaji sexually assaulted and robbed a 12-year-old schoolgirl. He was given a 10-month detention and training order in September 2011, serving five months in custody. In April last year, he was fined £15 for failing to comply with the order, while a month later he was given a youth supervision order for 18 months for making indecent pictures of young girls.

Detective Chief Inspector Adam Lowe of the Metropolitan police, who led the investigation, said police had been aware of the threat Jaji posed and had raised their concerns with a multi-agency public protection forum (Mappa) which had planned imminently to apply for an order to establish some control over the risk he posed. Jaji raped his victim before such steps could be taken. Lowe said a case review was going on into what happened, adding: "My organisation has done more than its statutory obligations."

THIS IS WHAT HAPPENS WHEN THE CRIMINAL JUSTICE SYSTEM GOES SOFT ON SEX OFFENDERS

Olemipo Jaji - paedophile rapist at the age of 18 and considered a threat to the public, he had a previous conviction for a violent sexual assault on an underage girl, so why was he out on the streets?

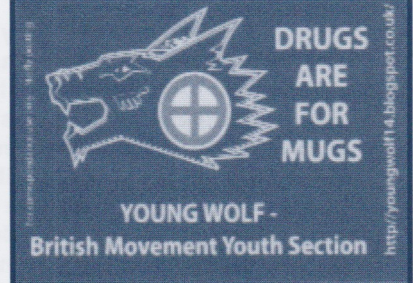

Opemipo Jaji had already been convicted of robbing and sexually assaulting a 12 year old girl in February 2011 - so why was he out on the streets?

In an extremely soft response to a serious crime, in September 2011, he was given a 10 months detention and training order for the robbery and sexual assault on the 12 year old girl, but only served 5 months before being released. In April 2012 Jaji was fined a mere £15 for failure to comply with the order and even more astonishingly a month later, he was given an 18 months youth supervision order when he was discovered to have been making indecent images of young girls.

How many warnings do the authorities need ?

Typically in such cases, the news media did everything possible not to mention the screamingly obvious fact about the sex attacker - his racial origins - he is a black African living in Edmonton, North London. It is a scandal that such details are kept quiet in the interests of so-called, 'Community relations'.

A National Socialist View of Life in Britain's Capital City

The Struggle For Survival of White British Londoners in the Swamp of Multi-Racial Chaos and Enforced 'Diversity' That Has Taken Over Greater London

By Broadsword correspondent Ed London.

THE WOOLWICH ATROCITY

Obviously the biggest story in London since the last issue of Broadsword has been the terrible murder of an unarmed British soldier on the street outside his barracks in Woolwich.

Every right thinking person in the country will have heard all the dreadful details since the killing of Drummer Lee Rigby on May 22nd 2013.

The TV footage of the attack, the sight of the two killers parading up and down the murder scene on John Wilson Street, Woolwich, just a few hundred yards from the gateway to the Royal Artillery Barracks, has been seen by people worldwide.

The two jihadists who ambushed and slaughtered the defenceless British serviceman were classed as 'home-grown' terrorists, in fact both killers were born in the UK to Nigerian parents, and converted to Islam. These men are text-book products of multi-racial, multi-cultural London. Their lives and ethnic backgrounds are what the leftists call examples of London's vibrant diversity.

Anyone familiar with Woolwich will know how this part of South-East London has changed over the last 30 years - it now has the appearance of a Third World suburb - every race, colour and creed seems to live here. Woolwich has become what the liberal elite like to call, 'Cosmopolitan'.

Woolwich no longer looks or sounds British.

Now an unarmed British soldier, not even in uniform, wearing a 'Help For Heroes' T-shirt has been stabbed and hacked to death in the street outside his barracks.

This issue of Broadsword will give a lot more coverage to the Woolwich Atrocity, but for the 'London on London' page, this is as much as I want to say.

THE BILDERBERG CONFERENCE 2013

Location Watford

OK technically not in London, but as good as, just a short ride by limousine up the M1 or by helicopter from Canary Wharf, if you could get through the massive security arrangements.

This year the Bilderberg group tried to present themselves as media-friendly, and they actually issued a press release claiming that the Bilderberg was not a secret organisation, but, in their words, "a diverse group of political leaders and experts from industry."

All 140 of them - but who was there to discuss the Public Relations presented list of 12 topics for discussion?

Well, in addition to our own British Prime Minister David Cameron, and Chancellor George Osborne, there was also Labour shadow chancellor Ed Balls; together with such experts from industry as, Peter Sutherland, the chairman of Goldman Sachs International, Michael Evans, vice-chairman of Goldman Sachs & Co, Ken Clarke (Tory MP and government minister); Peter Mandelson, former Labour MP and ex-Labour minister; Henri de Castries, chairman and chief executive of Axa Group, Jean-Claud Trichet former head of the European Central Bank, Douglas Flint group chairman of HSBC Holdings plc, Marcus Agius former chairman of the Barclays banking group. Plus a sprinkling of former diplomats and European Union commissioners.

No press releases as to what they actually discussed, or what they decided to do.

Still, the Bilderberg Group persists in saying that it is not a secret organisation.

Public Demonstrations

The reporting of a British Movement presence on street protests and demonstrations has inspired some individuals to demand more 1980's style marches and demonstrations by BM.

However these people need to recognise that times have changed, and while it would be a great propaganda spectacle to see marching columns and flags on the streets, now is not the time to resurrect a strategy that is 30 years out of date.

This is not to say that some day the Movement will not assemble ranks of Sunwheel banners on British streets and advance marching, disciplined columns through our city centres.

A great deal of work and recruitment would have to take place before we return to that formula.

John Tyndall once wrote.

"What is it that touches off a chord in the instincts of the people to whom we seek to appeal? It can often be the most simple and primitive thing. Rather than a speech or printed article it may just be a flag; it may be a marching column; it may be the sound of a drum; it may be a banner or it may just be the impression of a crowd.

None of these things contain in themselves one single argument, one single piece of logic...." They are recognized as being among the things that appeal to the hidden forces of the human soul." Wise words, worthy of consideration, but there is a time and a place to put them into practice.

OXFORD
ANOTHER CHILD-SEX GROOMING CASE
ANOTHER CASE OF UNDER-AGE
VULNERABLE WHITE GIRLS BEING PREYED
ON AND TRAFFICKED BY ASIAN MUSLIM MEN
YET - THE AUTHORITIES STILL DENY THAT RACE IS AN ISSUE

Oxford - May 2013

Another trial of a network of Asian Muslim men (and two Egyptians), who have been grooming under-age, White British girls for sex, giving the girls illegal drugs and alcohol before raping them, before passing them on to other Muslim men to rape and sexually molest; selling the girls to other gangs of Asian men to serve as child prostitutes.

A bigger case, with more men involved than similar cases brought to trial last year in Lancashire, the girls were subjected to even worse treatment than in previous trials - Kamar Jamil actually branded his initials onto the flesh of one 13 year old victim so that other rapists would see that he 'owned' her first.

The week before the judgements were passed at the Oxford trial, the news media briefly admitted that the details of a similar case in the Telford area of Shropshire had been withheld from press reporting for 'legal reasons', (an official smokescreen of silence if ever there was one).

The official line was that details about the Telford case were held back for legal reasons, and for police operational reasons, in order not to interfere with the investigations into the Oxford cases. No sooner had the news about the Telford case been made public, that it disappeared from TV, radio and the national newspapers almost overnight as the conclusion of the Oxford trial surfaced.

All were equally as bad, all followed the same sordid pattern, but of course, we are re-assured by the police and the Home Office, that race is not an issue in these cases.

The Oxford case was bigger, more wide spread, and the dreadful details of the grooming, rapes, sexual torture, drugs and child-prostitution and trafficking, were some of the worst yet to emerge in such trials.

THE WOOLWICH ATROCITY

The Brutal Killing of Drummer Lee Rigby Brought 'Home-Grown' Jihadist Terrorism To Another Level.

The negative consequences of allowing the growth and development of multi-cultural and multi-racial communities in Britain is graphically illustrated by these terrorist outrages

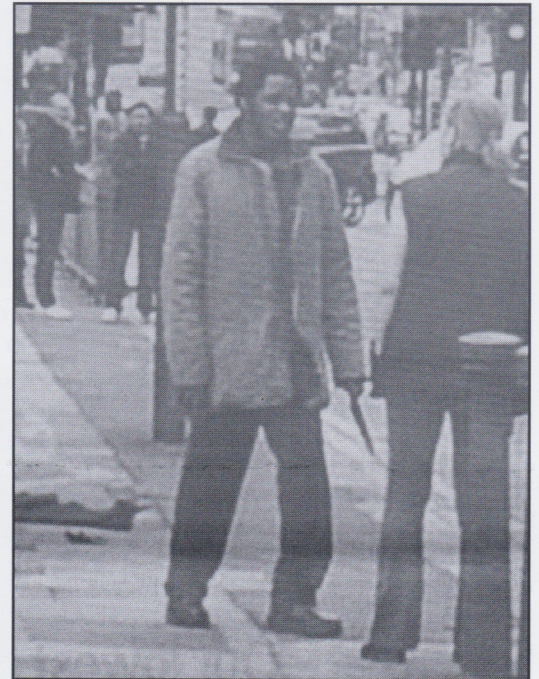

These were the images that were flashed around the world before the Metropolitan Police, the Home Office, MI5, the Government could issue any kind of statement to the British public.

This time there was no room for an official denial or smokescreen.

This was the reality of what happens when a society allows hostile, alien doctrines to develop and grow in the interests of 'diversity'.

Home-Grown jihadists hate British society, British values and culture.

Fusilier Lee Rigby paid the price for the policy of tolerance and equality.

Drummer Lee Rigby, a serving Fusilier was off duty, he was returning to barracks, and was selected as a target and brutally cut down by two Islamist fanatics, because they saw that he was wearing a 'Help for Heroes' T-shirt. An unarmed, off-duty British soldier, ambushed and hacked to death on a London street by two men, the authorities consider to be fellow British citizens.

How can this be the case?

Fusilier Rigby was a White British man, born in Lancashire, one of a family who were British by birth for generations. He was married in a Christian church, his wife is White British, and he was a father. He was a serving soldier who had seen active service with his regiment.

The film footage of his murder clearly shows that the two men who killed him had nothing in common with Lee Rigby; they were not like him, they were not of his race, did not share his religion and were not British by descent, but British by bits of paper.

The killers; Michael Adebolajo and Michael Adebowale, were the sons of immigrants from West Africa; they were converts to Islam, they openly professed their jihadists beliefs on camera.

In 2011 Adebolajo was arrested in Kenya, trying to join up with jihadists in Somalia but was allowed to return to live in the UK.

How could these two be fellow British citizens?

This is how an American commentator illustrated the killing of Drummer Lee Rigby - a throw-back to the savagery of the colonial wars in late 19th Century Africa. The parallels between the actions of the Islamist followers of the 'Mad Mahdi' in the Sudan Campaign of the 1890's and the killing of General Gordon at Khartoum; and now the murder of Lee Rigby in Woolwich in 2013.

"What we must fight for is to safeguard the existence and reproduction of our race and our people, the sustenance of our children and the purity of our blood, the freedom and independence of the fatherland, so that our people may mature for the fulfillment of the mission allotted it by the creator of the universe."

AFTERMATH - The Multi-Culturalists Begin Their Fight-Back.

Now that the pressure has died down after the first heated weeks at the end of May and the beginning of June; the funeral of the murdered Fusilier Lee Rigby is over, so it is now safe for the defenders of multi-culturalism to crawl out of the shadows and start their 'fight back'.

They have three months in which to regain the public initiative before the trial of the jihadist killers begins in November.

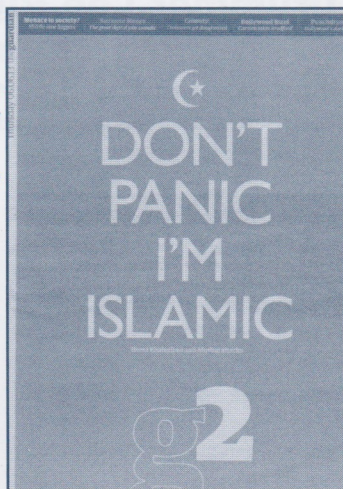

The Left-wing media is hard at work digging up stories that make the Islamic communities in Britain look like the 'unfortunate' victims in this situation - 'British Muslims' caught up as innocent bystanders, when the extremists attacked.

Carefully planted stories in newspapers like the 'Guardian' and the 'Independent', known for their liberal and Left-leaning readership.

"Don't Panic I'm Islamic" appeared in the 'Guardian', G2 supplement on June 6th. Telling its readers about all the awful, 'racist' hate crimes that Muslims in Britain were suffering as a result of the Woolwich Atrocity.

There is even a special 24 hour help-line, called, "Tell Moma" where Muslims in the UK can directly report 'Islamophobic' hate crimes such as name calling and graffiti.

In the wake of the Woolwich Atrocity, the Telford and Oxford 'Grooming/Child-Sex Cases, and the assorted 'Home-grown' Jihadist trials in 2013: much is said by media- friendly Imams and self-styled 'community leaders' about the positive aspects of Islamic culture Broadsword invites you to look at this picture and read the facts below - make up your own mind.

The above picture and story by the American photo-journalist Stephanie Sinclair appeared in the 'Guardian' newspaper on May 23rd 2013.

Broadsword reproduces the picture and the details of the story as a source of information for Broadsword readers.

Both the girls pictured above are eight years old and are married to these men.

Unbelievable to a British reader, Tahani was actually married, in the full sense a wife, to her husband Majed, when she was six years old and he was twenty-five years old.

Although the photograph of the child brides was taken in the Yemen, this custom is not unique to Yemenis, and older men marrying pre-pubescent girls is both legal and accepted in many Islamic and Third World Countries.

Is it any wonder that multi-cultural towns and cities in modern Britain has seen so many cases of under-age girls being groomed and trafficked for sex.

Remember: When immigrants arrive in a new country, they bring with them all the assorted aspects of their lives; religions, cultures, customs, traditions and belief systems. They do not leave these things behind in their home countries, nor do they give them up willingly.

How many immigrant communities are there settled in Britain who regard this as acceptable?

THE WOOLWICH ATROCITY

A British Movement Perspective On the Murder of Fusilier - Drummer Lee Rigby

As this issue of Broadsword magazine goes to print, the furore over the slaying of Fusilier Rigby has died down; the arrests were made, the killers transferred from hospital to prison, the funeral of Lee Rigby has taken place. All will now remain quiet until the trials of his killers begin in November.

Briefly, the national outrage at the Woolwich atrocity made it possible for those British patriots who are totally opposed to the nonsense that is multi-racial Britain to come out publicly to denounce the killers, the type of multi-cultural society that bred them, and the collective anger of White British people at the brutal murder of one of OUR soldiers. What is noticeable, and what we, as politically active British National Socialists and racial Nationalists, is the well-oiled denial machine that sprang into action as soon as the murder was reported.

It can only be the case, that the Government, Police and News Media in the UK have had in place a well rehearsed strategy for dealing with such situations. No doubt that 'lessons were learned' after the July 2007 bombings.

Everything about the media response to the killing of Fusilier Lee Rigby suggested that there was a plan to prevent such an event triggering social and community unrest. The Home Office and the Police have had years of policy making around the subject of 'community cohesion' and 'defending diversity'; the PREVENT strategy and other heavily tax-payer funded, anti-extremist programme.

So, within hours of the dreadful news footage being broadcast, TV, radio and mainstream newspaper journalists were interviewing 'community leaders' and 'Muslim spokes-persons' for strongly worded statements condemning the murders and jihadist ideas. Amazing how many Muslim spokesman say that,

"these people do not represent the Muslim community"

But, who then supports them with funds, provides the mosques and community centres for their meetings and sermons?

Journalists prowled the surrounding streets of Woolwich, where so-called 'local' Muslims gave their thoughts on the situation. Not surprisingly, all looked into the camera lens with shocked faces and denounced the lunatic actions of the two jihadists.

But there again, any non-white person saying on-camera that the killers were right and that they agreed with them, would have to be suicidal. These people knew that they had to say the right thing; the safety of themselves and their families depended on it. The Police braced themselves for a White British backlash, but in reality knew that they had all the likely targets under heavy police surveillance.

Here and there, a few angry Whites boiled over and there was some minor damage to a few isolated mosques and Islamic centres, a bit of hostile graffiti, but nothing else.

A mosque burned down in North London was daubed with an unlikely assortment of slogans; swastikas, 'NF' and 'EDL'

It seems that the building was not only old and rundown but was no longer adequate for the local Muslim community. Very conveniently it was fire-bombed by persons unknown, and will now be replaced with a brand new building, funded by the tax-payer, with every modern resource the local Muslims have been demanding. Evil unknown racists are blamed. Makes you wonder who exactly carried out the attack? The extreme - Left were quick to jump on the band wagon and declared that diversity had to be defended. When the EDL and BNP announced national demonstrations in London to protest about the murder - the Leftist anti-racist organisations declared it to be a 'Day of Hate'. Thus switching attention away from the reality of the Woolwich Atrocity.

The Ideological Roots of 21st Century National Socialism

The Ideological Roots of Modern National Socialism are to be Found in the Principles and Theories Laid Down in the Germanic-SS in the 1940's.

The Germanic-SS Developed the Concept of a Pan-European National Socialist Movement Which Embraced All European Nations. Those ideals Spread Beyond 1945 and Evolved Into the Form of National Socialism Advocated by British Movement Today.

Building up a calendar of events that celebrate our ancestral ceremonies and sacred dates, is a step towards our nation's spiritual revival and a means to generate racial awareness and a restoration of our national identity.

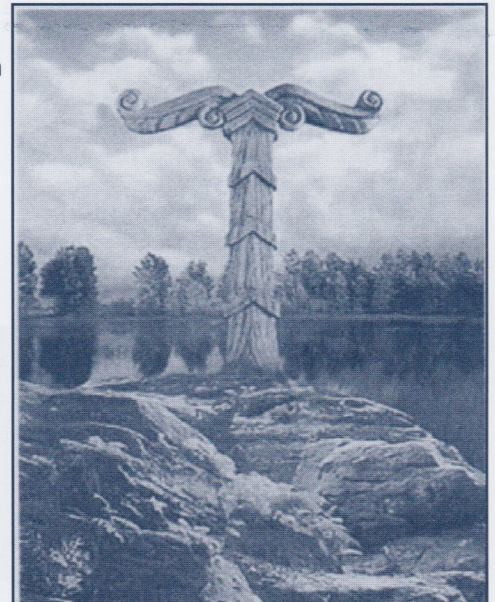

These celebrations are something that our people can identify with, can embrace and take pride in.

These celebrations have no meaning to the Third World, non-Aryan colonisers of Britain, and are something that they cannot identify with, nor can they share in them.

Our Folk traditions and heritage help to restore confidence in our Folk; to break the shackles of urban living and to help set them apart from those who are not like us. Our traditions are a link to our homeland and the bonds of Blood and Soil we have with our country. Too many people do not recognise the old Folkish symbols, the totems of our ancient Folk Ways. Solstice celebrations and public access to our ancient sacred sites, like Stonehenge, have been hijacked by 'New Age' travellers, ageing hippies and Left-leaning Greens. It is time that the true 'Folkish' movement reclaimed the sacred sites and the links to our nation's ancient spiritual heritage.

British Movement is working towards the establishment of an annual programme of cultural celebrations across Britain, both Christian and Folkish that our people can attend with their families, to enjoy and continue our Nation's rich Folk culture and heritage.

The Irminsul - Tree of Life

OUR READERS SAY.....

Dear Broadsword,

I am writing to congratulate the author of the article on page 19 (BMW - The Vixens) of Broadsword issue 46. It highlighted clearly and succinctly the major problems that are blighting our countryside, and destroying the fabric of our rural village communities.

These communities have been betrayed for decades by the 'old gang' of Westminster politicians; all the mainstream political parties; the intellectual chattering class with their liberal mindset, who control the mass media, as well as the political Left in all its forms.

The latest census (2011), has underlined the demographic shift in our country. We are grossly overpopulated. This stems from the 'Open Door' immigration policy of the last Labour Blair/Brown government. The Coalition, despite a lot of hot air and false promises about tightening immigration policy, cannot close the door. Only the policy advocated by British Movement will control immigration, by closing the door on non-Aryan immigrants, and also solve the over population problem by phased repatriation of non-Aryans living here.

I was born in a former market town, now a dormitory city for commuters, and have lived all my life in what was a quiet rural community. So I am appalled by the damage being inflicted on our countryside, not only by building houses on the Green-belt, but also by wind farms, traveller sites, the planned HS2 - high speed rail link between London and the Midlands, plus expansion of the road network.

It is possible that the BM policy could reduce the UK population by 20 million over a period of 10 to 20 years. Which would have a major beneficial impact on housing, education, the NHS and public transport.

In recent years the influx of immigrants and their birth rates, has put pressure on hospitals and schools. A major population reduction would enable our country to reduce its reliance on imported foods. As indicated in the Vixens article, food security will become a major issue, as the global population rises.

Steps must be taken to protect our native wildlife and conserve their habitat.

We must and will have our countryside back!

THERMOPOLAE and the FILM '300'

some observations by I.I.

A few nights ago I watched the film '300', which was released in 2006, and directed by Zack Snyder. Although the film is fictional, it is based on real historical events.

Thermopylae = 'The Hot Gates' was a battle that took place in 480 BC, during the Second Persian invasion of Greece, the first invasion ended with the Athenian victory at Marathon in 490 BC.

The Greeks were led by King Leonidas of Sparta and his 300 man bodyguard, the heroes of the film.

Only 300, because the celebration of the festival of Carneia forbade military activity other than the 300 Spartans; in the event, 700 Thespians and 400 Thebans would join Leonidas against the Persian King Xerxes the First and his huge multi-racial, multi-ethnic army of 2,600,000. Although modern historians estimate the true number to be around 300,000, most agree that the Greeks inflicted 20,000 casualties and lost around 4,000 men. On the third day of fighting, Leonidas decided to fight a rear-guard action, which left around 3,000 men to fight another day.

So on to the film '300' - which is a film I do enjoy watching. In my view the film is a portrayal, not of historical accuracy, but has the under-story of a small unit of White (Aryan) Europeans of Hellenic stock, fighting an army of a thousand different races and cultures, with the Greeks holding the invaders at bay. I also detect a hostile, gloating tone to the film that seems to say,

"Look White man, look at what you used to be like. And when unified, what you could achieve. Now look at what we have done to you."

Well we can still do it, still draw on the Aryan spirit of the 300. WE are not totally broken yet.

Hail the Golden Dawn - Son's of Sparta!
Hail the British Movement!

RADICAL OPINIONS

Opinions expressed in this column do not necessarily reflect the official British Movement position or policy but are included to stimulate debate and discussion on a wide range of topics of interest to our National Socialist and racial Nationalist readership.

A Prediction by 'DAG'.

This is my prediction on the survival of the White Race, in our unpredictable world, that we, and our enemies live in.

All the cities throughout Europe and Britain will gradually decline, no matter how much money they use to try and prop them up. It is a simple fact of life that our supposed leaders, be they politicians, royalty, financiers and bankers, who flaunt their wealth, and presume that only they have the intelligence, and the culture to dictate to their humble servants.

Their mistake throughout recent history was to underestimate the true desire of the indigenous man for his folk and nation. We are not the beasts of the field to be herded, or to serve at their dinner table. They see the police, the armed forces, and all those who do the real work as simply factory or cannon fodder.

Immigration, to those in power, means they have even more ways to exploit the indigenous working-class, and to keep the true patriots in their political chains.

The laws that are passed in Parliament, the Race Relations Act, the race hate crimes laws, Gay wedding rights, and many more, are political acts designed to keep us in fear of our political masters.

Our mass media continually pumps out the message that 'Gays', race-mixing, etc. is not only normal, but is to be desired.

But, the majority of our nation disagrees.

My prediction for the future will be the removal of the Royal Family, as the new immigrants have no desire to serve them, and nor do we. Our so-called 'democratic' political parties will destroy themselves, as they are only a mixture of actors, fraudsters, liars and pimps, worst of all they are puppets, who are controlled by their Masonic and Zionist financial masters.

The continued growth of the Third World element in the population of our country, with their desire to gain wealth, with no thought to the harm and destruction it will cause to our once green and pleasant land. This is not obvious to the liberals and leftists, with their 'love everyone' mentality. The so-called Conservatives, who see their personal wealth as their God.

Worst of all the political Left-wing who fantasise about 'People Power', run by their chosen masters. But 'we' have news for them, 'we' will not budge, 'we' are going to stay.

This is our nation, not theirs, and we will have it back!

Che Guevara

Working-Class Hero?

Left-wing M.S.P's in the Edinburgh Parliament celebrate the life of Che Guevara. Yet this man was a Marxist revolutionary, chief of security in Cuba, where he tortured people in the jails of Havana.

Dean Herbert pointed out in the 'Daily Express' that Guevara was responsible for the deaths of many thousands, yet the Left revere him.

This gives you some idea of the mind-set exhibited by the Leftists at the Scottish Parliament.

We working-class Brits wonder what will happen to us if the Left ever get the power they so lust after?

Will we be forced to flee the land of our birth to any land that will grant us political asylum?

The history of Left-wing accession to power does not encourage us to believe that the Marxists will be gentle to us or show us justice.

The Communists slaughtered 72 million people in the Soviet Union from 1917, when Lenin and Trotsky took power, to 1953 when Stalin died. In China, they killed 80 million to bring Chairman Mao to absolute power, as the 'Great Helmsman', with the 'Mandate of Heaven'.

Millions more butchered by Leftists in Korea, Vietnam, Cambodia, Africa, the Middle East and Latin America.

Now the Communist regime in North Korea threatens the world with a thermo-nuclear war. Its Marxist leaders ignore the possibility of a pre-emptive strike that could reduce their nation to a heap of radio-active rubble, and a death toll of millions.

The leader of North Korea is a flabby despot, just like Mao, Tito and Stalin in that respect, they all lived well and loved their rich food. How then can the Left project themselves as bearers of superior morality?

Trotsky even wrote, "Their morals and Ours"

Stalin had eight private mansions; Chairman Mao had ten; Tito lived in a castle on a private island in the Adriatic. All Marxist dictators live the 'Dolce Vita'.

Che Guevara was no pauper. The Left are hypocrites - saviours of the working-class? I don't think so.

The State of Welfare

As I write this article, there are literally hundreds of our people, by that I mean our racial kin-folk, who are struggling to feed themselves and their families. This is due to government cutbacks, unemployment, and new obstacles in applying for, or receiving benefits. Many are being starved into submission, having no option but to bend to the increasing government demands, the cuts in welfare, sapping the hearts and minds of our folk. "Eat less, Drink less, Socialise less, Stop taking holidays, Stop spending on your children" - the list goes on.

As parents we want to enjoy stress free lives for our children, giving them opportunities, and happy childhood memories; traditions to pass on to their children in the future.

The stress and anxiety caused by deprivation makes for little more than poverty and isolation. The 'Haves' will continue to Have, the 'Have Nots' will continue to be crushed. They feel the envy for those who do not have to struggle on an hourly basis just to live.

The existence of some in poverty is criminal, especially when the Government says that we need migrant workers, and talks of amnesty for illegal immigrants.

So what can our Movement do?

BM believes that more can be done to help our folk at ground level, rather than the investment of thousands of pounds in fighting elections that cannot be won.

How many mouths can we feed with that money, rather than throwing it away in chasing electoral points?

British Movement has launched an 'NS Self-Help' welfare system; local food banks, so that donated, non-perishable items can be boxed and given to the families of our own folk who are in desperate need of help.

Clothing banks will follow in the future. This is just the beginning; I would ask the 'Haves' in our ranks to be true to the National Socialist principles of Folk Community and donate tinned or dried foods to our 'Bring a Tin' scheme; - we are all sharing in ensuring the welfare of our Folk Comrades and their children - a National Family raised in the spirit of an NS Folk Community.

BUILDING AN N.S. FUTURE

The creation of a National Socialist state in Great Britain is the ultimate goal of British Movement, and in order to achieve the creation of a National Socialist 'New Order' in the UK, we must first create the political conditions by which this situation can be realised.

This will be a long and difficult struggle, but it can be done, and for the future of our people it must be done. We must right the wrongs inflicted upon our people in the name of multi-racialism and multi-culturalism, we must regain the birth-right of our people taken from them by stealth and the lies of democratic politicians and Left-wing ideologists. So-called progressive thinkers and opinion makers who have corrupted our nation's psyche.

We Will Have Our Country Back!

We Have To Challenge the Way the British People Have Been Made to Think
If National Socialism is to Triumph - We Have To Show Them A New Way of Living

The way people talk, the words they use to describe things. 'New Speak', an Orwellian approach to taking unwanted words out of common usage and forcing people to conform to a politically correct vocabulary. The liberal opinion-shapers and the media have encouraged the indigenous British to stop describing the non-white population of the UK as 'immigrants', they are now 'Ethnic Minorities', or 'British Asians', 'African-Caribbeans' or even people of 'Pakistani heritage'.

This is pure Stalinist re-education at work. It is true that many are no longer immigrants, they are second or third generation descendants of immigrants; immigrants who became 'settlers' and together with their descendants are now colonisers.

To counter the 'PC' language, National Socialists activists must start to use 'OUR' vocabulary, these people are "Colonists".

How many parents have been shocked to discover that all the meat served at the schools their children attend is now guaranteed Halal?

It was not always Halal. The schools changed to supplying Halal because of the pressure from Muslim parents and pressure groups, so NS and racial Nationalist parents should use the same tactics. A parents' pressure group should be formed to demand that a non-Halal option be provided, just as in the past Muslims campaigned for the Halal option. It must be made clear that parents find Halal meat unacceptable for ethical, moral and cultural reasons, deeply held convictions, therefore the Local Education Authority and individual schools should be pressured into providing guaranteed non-Halal meat to those children who find Halal unacceptable.

By citing "Ethical, Moral, and Cultural" objections, race cannot be drawn into the question. We must use our enemies own campaign strategies against them and push back multi-culturalism by using the very notions that allowed changes to be made to accomodate the minorities. (Colonisers).

A new way of living - stop accepting the terms and conditions that the multi-culturalists have imposed on the White British - start to force changes that suit OUR people.

is the universal creed of our race, not limited to or peculiar to time and place."

Dear Broadsword,

I am 75 years of age, served in the Army years ago, and now looking at this disgusting crime against a young soldier in Woolwich, in which two Nigerians cut the head off the young man. This act proves the point that 'Blacks' do not integrate into a civilised country. These people are just scum, no place for them in any European country.

It proves the point; just look at knife crime, gun crime and muggings, there is no end to it.

We have a government which is obsessed with greed, they had a £20,000 rise last year, and £10,000 this year; these parasites have their noses so deep in the greed trough, they have no concern for the White British people. Gog knows what our grand children's future will be.

We now have a country full of the dregs of the world. Take the case of the Nigerian woman in Hackney, who had triplets and it cost the NHS £200,000. Now 'We' are stuck with this blood-sucking leech, who is fighting deportation, and will never go back to Nigeria, thanks to our spineless government.

The old saying, "None are so blind as will not see", that is the British people of today.

My idol is the Fuhrer, Adolf Hitler, at least he had the courage to fight for his people. God knows that we need a 'Fuhrer' in this god-forsaken country of ours. I am proud to be a National Socialist, I saw Colin Jordan speak in Trafalgar Square in 1962, and he was right!

Dear Broadsword,

UKIP is simply a reactionary version of the disgraced and discredited Tory party!

Veteran 'Colin Jordan Loyalist'

Dear Broadsword,

To commemorate the 60th anniversary of Queen Elizabeth the Second's coronation, the BBC broadcast the original recordings of the event as if it were 'live' on Sunday 2nd June. Whilst I have no particular interest in the current Royal family, I watched snippets of the programme throughout the day, and was impressed with the pomp, ceremony and dignity of the occasion; something uniquely British.

The marching bands of Britain's armed forces all marching in perfect time, all cheered on by a sea of proud British spectators, with not a black face in sight!

The BBC's unbiased commentary was something to behold. The Gurkhas and other colonial troops merely mentioned by regiment, as were the British troops, RAF, Army etc. as they marched past the cameras.

Contrast these scenes with the next coronation; presumably of Prince Charles. The Olympic opening ceremony in 2012 has given us a foretaste. The brass bands will be replaced with a steel band, and there will probably be a troupe of black or homosexual (maybe both) acrobats cavorting around. Any colonial troops will be fawned upon by the commentators,

"Britain would not be the peaceful, free, democratic nation she is now without the assistance of these troops in the past blah, blah, blah."

As for the crowds, any black faces will be pushed to the front and given a Union flag to wave (probably upside down!) so the cameras can zoom in on them.

There will no doubt be an interview with a jolly Jamaican woman who has travelled all the way from Jamaica as she "loves her king so much"

I for not will not degrade myself by watching.
DS '88'

Dear Broadsword,

Yesterday I attended the "Wardley Gala", a short distance from my home. It was organised by David Douglass, a canny bloke to talk to. He is a life long anarchist, a member of Class War and International Workers of the World. He also appears to support every revolutionary and murderous Marxist group around the globe and boasts about it in his three volume autobiography.

This did not stop two members of parliament attending, the Mayor performing the opening ceremony, an ex Mayor in attendance and many regional trade union leaders and councillors represented. All this done with grants which is your taxpayers money and mine.

Now if he had been a former NF, BM or BNP member of thirty years ago it would have been a different ball game altogether.

The next event in July is Durham Gala when the Reds do creep out from under every stone.

There is always a good contingent of geriatric Marxists with two foot long Karl Marx beards who always amuse me with their evergreen nostalgia for 1917!

GS Tyne-side.

"Loyalty, spirit of sacrifice, discretion are virtues that a great nation absolutely needs, and their cultivation and development in schools are more important than some of the things which fill out our curriculums today."

BRITISH GOVERNMENT TO MAKE £14 MILLION PAYOUT TO KENYAN MAU MAU 'VETERANS'

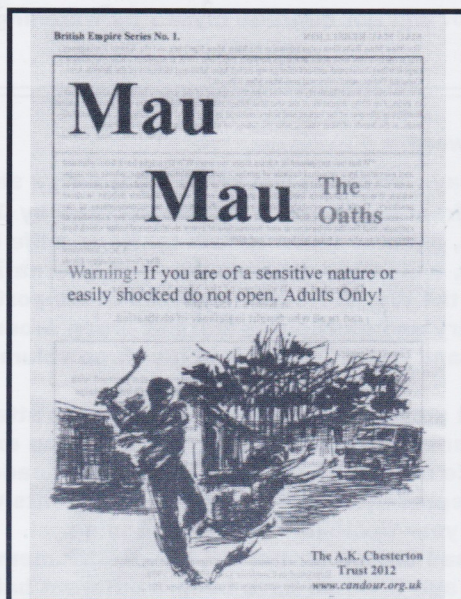

Is This What They Mean By Britain's Legacy of Empire?

The Mau Mau rebellion against the British colonial administration in Kenya, in the closing years of the British Empire, was one of brutal attacks and a campaign of terror against White farmers, the British Army, Colonial Police and black Kenyans opposed to the Mau Mau rebels.

The Foreign Office has caved in to an orchestrated legal campaign by ageing Africans, backed by a collection of Left-wing Human Rights activists and liberal journalists.

A massive 'damages' payout of £2,600 each has been made to over 5,200 self-styled veterans of the guerilla warfare before Kenyan independence; the British armed forces, Colonial Police and loyal African auxiliaries stand accused of brutality, torture and cruelty towards captured insurgents, but there is no mention of the murders and atrocities committed by the Mau Mau war bands.

Once again Britain's Imperial legacy is under attack and leftist historians prepare to re-write Britain's colonial history as something that the White British people should be ashamed of, and of course, British schools will teach them that the British Empire was cruel and 'racist', something that modern British children should apologise for and feel guilty about.

The Things They Say

April 24th 2013

Radio 2 - Chris Evans Breakfast Show

Chris Evans actually told his listeners that 'mixed marriages' were a good thing, and even went so far as to suggest that everyone should marry someone from a different culture.

The BBC would actually have us believe that it has a policy of being neutral on matters of politics - we don't think so....

This statement by broadcaster Chris Evans was pure multi-culturalist propaganda.

The Woolwich Atrocity

A West London Student 'tweeted' this offensive message

"to be honest, if you wear a Help For Heroes T-shirt you deserve to be beheaded."

A 21 year old student living in Harrow, complained to the police that she had received threatening messages after posting the 'tweet' about the murder of Drummer Lee Rigby.

Deyka Ayan Hassan sent the 'tweet' on the same day that the soldier was killed.

For once the police acted against a member of the ethnic minority population and Deyka Ayan Hassan found herself in court, on charges of sending a malicious electronic message. Unbelievably Hassan actually thought that she was the victim here, because people threatened her!

Magistrates sentenced Hassan to carry out 250 hours community service.
